SHOEMAKERS HOLD ANOTHER ELECTION

Irregularities in Recent Ballotting Resulted in Special Referendum Vote.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Dec. 6.—For the second time within a few months the 15,000 members of the Boot & Shoe Workers' Union throughout the country are today voting for national officers. The special election is due to a dispute in the cast of the ballots in the recent referendum vote. The minority of the board of inspectors threw out the vote of whole unions where irregularities occurred and declared John P. Tobin elected president and Collis P. Lovly vice-president. The majority of the board declared the irregularities inconsequential and awarded the offices to Thomas E. Hickey, president, and Charles Murray, as vice-president. Tobin and Lovly have held the offices for many years. Hickey fought to have his election stand, but the executive council insisted on a new election. Tobin represents the conservative and Hickey the radical wings of the union.

Stringent Measures Are Being Taken in Justice Court to Make Debtors Pay Landladies.
Three judgments for $1, with costs ranging from $4.53 to 5.03 additional, were rendered by Judge Reeder this morning in the actions brought by Mrs. Belle White against J. B. Stephens, Hugh Mason, and Van Hill. The defendants were railroad employees and boarded with the plaintiff for one day, after which they left town without the formality of a farewell. The St. Paul railroad company was garnished and there is a little less than enough money due the men to meet the judgments. Mrs. T. Stiel also secured against Robert Smith a judgment in the same court for $20.20 and costs on a board bill. The Rock County Sugar Co. is garnished and an overcoat belonging to Smith which was in a tailor shop for repairs, is attached.

NEW YORK, WAITING FOR THAW TRIAL, Gossiping

All Famous Murder Cases Being Discussed, And Details Of Deeds And Court Scenes Are Recalled.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Dec. 6.—It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that New Yorkers are counting the days until the trial of Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, the noted architect, shall begin. The American metropolis dearly loves a famous murder trial. And the trial about to begin promises to be one of the most famous in the criminal history of New York. The prominence of the Thaw family socially, the wealth of his parents, the circumstances surrounding the young man's marriage to Evelyn Nesbit, and the spectacular scene in the midst of which he fired the bullets into the breast of the man who, he asserted, had betrayed his wife, all add interest to the trial.
It is not always easy to account for the intense interest that the public displays in murder cases. Almost every day adds to the list of homicides in Greater New York. But it is only at intervals of about every two years that the great city is aroused by one of those cases that become famous and are remembered after all the participants have passed from the scene. The records would seem to show that if a love intrigue is involved in the case it is most apt to attract wide attention. Deep mystery, extraordinary brutality or fendishness, and the social prominence of the principals oftentimes serve to attract the public attention. Murder accompanied by robbery seldom attracts more than a passing notice from the public at large.
In the case of Edward S. Stokes, prominence of both the slayer and his victim all combined to make it one of the most famous cases in the criminal history of America. The tragedy occurred in 1871, but is still vividly remembered by all old New Yorkers. Stokes was a man of considerable wealth, a very energetic and promising business man, who, nevertheless, had not fortified himself against the temptations of a fashionably dissipated life in New York. He shot and killed "Jim" Fisk, one of the notorious characters of his day; long the partner of Jay Gould. Added interest was given the crime by the general belief that it was actuated by jealousy between the two men over the notorious "Josie" Mansfield. Subsequent developments tended to show that the real cause was that Stokes believed that Fisk was trying to ruin him in his business. Stokes was tried several times. The first trial resulted in a verdict of guilty and a sentence of death. The end of it was that he served several years in state prison, and upon his release returned to New York a broken down man.
Another famous case of a quarter of a century ago was that of John C. Colt, convicted of the murder of a creditor. The unusual means taken to dispose of the victim's body was one of the features that attracted attention to this case. Colt was a business man of good standing in the community. Infuriated by a persistent creditor, he attacked and killed the man, put the body in a box and shipped it to New Orleans. All of the wealth of Mr. Colt's brother, who was the inventor of the revolver, was placed at the disposal of the counsel retained for Mr. Colt's defense. But Colt was convicted and was presumed to have committed suicide an hour or two before execution. At the hour set for execution fire broke out in the upper part of the Tombs and in the confusion Colt was for a few minutes forgotten. What was said to be his dead body was found in his cell. Yet a tradition has always prevailed that the fire was a part of a conspiracy by means of which Colt could escape and a substituted body be placed in his cell.
The more recent case of Roland Molineux is still well remembered. With the exception of Stokes, Molineux was the only man of high family connection of considerable wealth and good business character who has for many years been tried in this city for murder in the first degree. The date of the alleged crime was Dec. 28, 1898. The charge was the murder of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams by sending her cyanide of mercury under the guise of a headache cure. It was alleged that the poison was intended for another and that Mrs. Adams was given the fatal dose by mistake. Love and a desire for revenge were declared to be the motives. The first trial of Molineux began Nov. 14, 1899, and lasted nearly three months. He was found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair. A new trial was granted and three years after the date of the alleged murder the young man was acquitted. The general impression was that Molineux had been the victim of a great mistake of a diabolical conspiracy. As many thousands as could pack themselves into the narrow streets surrounding the criminal courts building cheered the young man upon his release.
The cheering masses followed the Molineux carriage down Centre street and gave a parting shout as it whirled across the Brooklyn bridge and bore the young man to the home of his loyal parents.
The next famous case that entertained the New York public and gave the yellow journals an opportunity to display their largest type was that of "Nan" Patterson, the Florida girl, who three times faced the court on the charge of murdering her sweetheart, "Caesar" Young, a bookmaker, while riding in a hansom cab. The youth and beauty of the girl and the story of her love affair with Young, a married man, gave interest to the case. After passing an entire summer in the Tombs the girl was brought to trial in November, 1904. After the trial had progressed for ten days one of the jurors was taken ill and this resulted in a postponement. Two years ago today Miss Patterson was brought into court for her second trial. It continued to Dec. 23, when the jury, after long deliberation, disagreed. It was said to stand 8 to 6. On April 17, 1905, the third trial began before Recorder Goff. With the disagreement of the jury at this trial the famous case ended, the district attorney concluding that the chances of securing a conviction were not sufficient to warrant the expense of another trial. The case had probably attracted more public attention than any other case of its kind in the history of New York. During the trials crowds thronged the street to catch a glimpse of the defendant as she crossed the Bridge of Sighs between the Tombs and the criminal courts.
The case of Albert T. Patrick, a lawyer of previous good standing, and a man of apparently refined tastes and comfortable means, who was convicted of the murder of William Marsh Rice, an aged and eccentric millionaire, has received so much publicity that its every detail is well known to the public. Patrick was arrested Oct. 4, 1900, but it was a year and a half before he was tried and convicted. For nearly five years he has been an occupant of the death house at Sing Sing and the end is not yet. The wealth of the victim, the previous good standing of the accused and the doubt cast upon the confession of the valet Jones, the alleged accomplice of Patrick, all combined to attract attention to this case. Since the trial public interest in the case has been increased by the heroic and successful fight that Patrick has waged to escape the death chair.
These trials have attracted more attention than any others in recent years. But scarcely less interesting at the time were other cases, among them that of Dr. Buchanan, who was executed for the murder of beautiful Helen Potter, of Dr. Kennedy, a Staten Island dentist, who was sentenced to death for the murder of Dolly Reynolds, granted a new trial and freed, and of the famous Guiseppe case, in which the victim was decapitated and the remains thrown into the river.

AFTER ALLEGED FEMALE CROOK

DISTRICT ATTY. J. L. FISHER EX-PECTS TO IDENTIFY

ELIZABETH MOHE OF BELOIT

As the Notorious Mary Mohr, the
"Cassie Chadwick of Chippewa County."

Is Mrs. Elizabeth Mohe of Beloit the so-called "Cassie Chadwick of Wisconsin" who, under the name of Mary A. Mohr is alleged to have swindled residents of Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, Stevens Point, and numerous other cities, out of sums of money aggregating $33,000? For many weeks District Attorney John L. Fisher has been investigating the record of the Mohr woman whose description and name so closely resemble that of Mrs. Mohe and he is so thoroughly convinced that the two are one that he went to Beloit today for the purpose of having Mrs. Mohe's bail bonds raised from $500 to $2,500.

But recently arrested. Although there has been a warrant out for the arrest of the woman for two months past, the officers were unable to serve it until recently, inasmuch as she has been making her home with her husband in South Beloit, over the Illinois state line. Recently "Nubby" landed in the cooler as a result of an uproarious spree and when the wife appeared on the scene to see about his release, she was promptly arrested on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Subsequently she was released on bail and her hearing was set for today. Mrs. Mohe is described as a plain, rather unprepossessing looking and poorly dressed German woman about 42 years of age.

Present Charge Against Her The complaint against her is preferred by a Mrs. Mary Hevey, 205 Roosevelt avenue, Beloit, who alleges that in November, 1905, Mrs. Mohe boarded at her home, that when she (Mrs. Hevey) and her husband decided to build a new house the Mohe woman insisted that they should borrow the money of her, availing that she had a $2,000 check on the Walsh bank in Chicago in her possession and that she would cash the same, and turn over the money as soon as needed; that on the strength of this loan she was going to advance, the boarder borrowed from time to time small sums aggregating $39, always assuring her landlady that she would go to Chicago and have the check cashed in a very few days and would return all the little accommodations as well as pay for eight weeks' board at the same time; and that at no time since has she advanced the loan according to agreement, or paid back the money borrowed, or the board bill. It is also alleged that the woman borrowed $200 of the state bank at Beloit, secured possession of a $2,000 home on a $40 payment, and obtained other large credits and valuable merchandise at several stores. But of all who are alleged to have suffered in their dealings with Mrs. Mohe, the fact remains that only Mrs. Hevey is willing to make formal complaint against her and go into court with it.

with it. In the meantime the defendant has retained as attorneys, M. O. Mount of this city and T. D. Woolsey of Beloit.

Career of Mary Mohr According to Attorney J. F. Ellis of Eau Claire, the notorious Mrs. Mohr commenced her career at Highbridge, Ashland county, where she lived with Adam Mohr, her husband. O. W. Bean, who runs a confectionery store at Abbotsford, appears to have been her first victim. He writes to District Attorney Fisher: "Her name was Mary Mohr when I first knew her. You will have the hardest job you ever had in placing her under conviction. In 1901 she made out a mortgage to me and also one to the Colby state bank on land in Marathon county she never owned." It appears that the woman bought some cattle of Bean and obtained his guarantee to a note secured by a mortgage which she negotiated at the bank and which Bean had to pay. Then she bought a farm near Stanley, Chippewa county, and with the cattle as a nucleus began to borrow large sums on money on chattel mortgages. Mr. Bean also says that he was a witness in the case of Mary Mohr vs. Mrs. Estella Sellers, tried under Judge W. H. Stafford at Chippewa Falls; that his evidence was instrumental in securing a judgment for $1,100 for the defendant; and that the judgment was not worth the paper it was written on. "I lost $100 in my dealings with her and she got possession of the farm, stock, and personal property valued at $800 of a man named Shrepper for two years and only paid him $500."

High Finance in Chippewa Judge W. H. Stafford writes to District Attorney Fisher: "Mrs. Estella Sellers, a client of mine, lost a large sum of money through this woman. Mr. Sellers, as agent for his wife, loaned her $1,500 on a mortgage on property which turned out to consist of only a couple of teams and a few cows. At least that was all that was ever located. There was a lawsuit over the horses involved in the chattel mortgage, the husband, Adam Mohr, claiming that the horses belonged to him and that his wife had no right to mortgage them. An action was, therefore, brought to recover their value. It was tried at Waunakee and the jury disagreed. Israel Herrel of Augusta, Mrs. Sellers, and others were witnesses. A widow there by the name of Jenny Cameron lost a few hundred dollars by loaning them to Mrs. Mohr and Mrs. Mary Hebert of Bloomer also loaned her some money."

Newspaper Lists Victims The Chippewa Herald, informed doubtless by Judge Stafford with regard to his correspondence with the district attorney of Rock county, announces that "The former Cassie Chadwick of Chippewa county has again appeared on the scene—this time at Beloit, and goes on to say: "Since October 15, 1904, when Lou Ackley, then sheriff, went to oust Mrs. Mohr from her farm near Stanley which she lost to Mrs. Mary Hebert, through foreclosure proceedings, very little has been heard of this notorious character. It is estimated that Mrs. Mohr succeeded in securing $33,000 from time to time on the 100-acre farm and property which she owned near Stanley. The names of her victims are not known, but they are said to be numerous. Without mortgages she held against the eighty which she had to give up to Mrs. Hebert by the following persons: James A. Vance of Thorpe, $3,000; Mrs. Mary Hebert, $4,000; Henry Kunz of Chippewa Falls, $1,500; Matt Klies of Eau Claire, $1,000; Susan Bowersack of Stevens Point, $200; and the property itself was worth less than $3,000. Those who loaned her money not paid back are: Estella Sellers, $1,800; O. W. Bean of Abbotsford, $1,000; Israel Herrel of Augusta, $350; Jennie A. Mohr, $500; Frank Walz of Stanley, $300."

Convicted, Got Off with Fine Judge Stafford informs Attorney Fisher that the Mary Mohr who had been the central figure of all these financial operations afterward went to Barron county and operated under the name of Elizabeth Mohr. He thinks that she was arrested there on a criminal charge; that the case was taken to Pepin county on a charge of venue, and that it was never brought to trial. The light on this point is furnished by District Attorney John W. Soderberg of Barron county under the name of Elizabeth Mohr on the charge of buying a horse under false pretenses; that she got off with a $300 fine, and left for Minnesota soon thereafter—which was in the month of September, 1905.

Back to Mrs. Mohe It was only a short time after Mrs. Elizabeth Mohr was convicted in Barron county that Mrs. Elizabeth Mohr is known to have made her appearance in Beloit. District Attorney Fisher hopes that the latter will be unable to furnish the $2,500 bail bonds and that she may be put in safe keeping behind the bars of the Rock county jail. For he has received information from one quarter that the dangerous woman, Mrs. Mohr, jumped a large bail bond on one occasion. The chain of circumstantial evidence, which has been outlined in the foregoing, coupled with the alleged actions of the Mohe woman in Beloit, seem to warrant the district attorney in at least taking precautions to prevent the possibility of escape.

Bondsman Went Back on Her Word was received from Beloit this afternoon to the effect that Mrs. Mohe made her appearance in court this morning and that the parties who were on her bonds for $500 refused to sign new ones. The trial was set for Dec. 15 and the bail raised to $1,000. At half-past two o'clock one man had been found who would guarantee her appearance, and the prospects were that she would be brought to Janesville.

Coming Here at Four Later Mrs. Mohe has been unable to secure the bail and is to be brought to Janesville on the four o'clock interurban car.

Books marked "Seven-Day Book" may be kept for that time only, and cannot be renewed or transferred to any card whatsoever. When a book is renewed, the borrower's card may be presented at the library, or request sent by mail, giving the author and title of the book, card number and date of issue. Books will also be renewed by telephone.

Books May Be Reserved. The clause following makes more easy the securing of any particular book that a patron may desire:

Any book other than fiction, or a seven-day book, may be reserved, and a notice will be sent to the one desiring it as soon as the book is returned to the library. A book will not be held longer than two days, when it will again be put into circulation.

Lists of Books. Among the rules on new books and book lists are two following paragraphs:

The librarian will be glad to receive suggestions in regard to books, which it is desirable to add to the library. Request slips will be furnished for this purpose, and all such suggestions will be presented to the book committee. Requests will be met as far as possible. No printed finding list of all the books in the library is issued. As frequent additions are made, such a list would be out of date before placed on sale. The card catalog is a complete list by author, title and subject of all the books in the library, and patrons are urged to consult it.

Drink Beer
in Cool Weather

Old Time Theory That It Was Good Only in Hot Days Refuted.

The theory that beer is strictly a hot weather drink is losing ground almost as fast as the prejudice against beer as an alcoholic drink. Beer is becoming more and more an all-year-around drink. It is, in fact, fast becoming our national beverage, and with its largely increased consumption we are glad to note a steady decrease in intemperance. Rich, wholesome, Pabst Blue Ribbon, with only 3½ per cent alcohol, satisfies the natural craving of a strenuous people without the over-stimulation of strong alcoholic beverages and without the shattering of nerves produced by the excessive use of tea or coffee. With its refreshing rest it also carries a rich, wholesome food value that makes it a commendable all-year-around drink.

The major consumption of beer used to be in the hot months, then as winter came on the use of it would fall off very considerably, giving way to strong drinks, and hot drinks. Dealers will tell you that the call for hot drinks is not by any manner of means so large as in past years, and they will also tell you that beer is fast becoming a popular cold weather beverage.

With this increased consumption of beer the public is becoming more and more discriminating. It demands a beer that pleases its taste, agrees with its stomach and carries with it a richness and wholesomeness that makes it a sustaining as well as a refreshing beverage. Pabst Blue Ribbon meets the approval of all who drink it. It is this because it is brewed because its Pabst process eliminates all possible chance of contamination. Made from Pabst exclusive 5-day malt, it is the richest beer without being heavy. Made with choicest imported hops it is a superior tonic without objectionable bitterness. It agrees with the stomach because it is thoroughly aged and mellow. Physicians recommend it and most people drink it because it is perfect in age, purity and strength. Owing to the nourishment in Pabst Beer the body is better prepared to resist cold.

MADISON PROMINENT

Growers and Dealers in Tobacco Gather at Madison for Annual Meeting.

Janesville tobacco men are very prominent at the meeting of the Tobacco Growers and Dealers Association now in session in Madison. The sessions opened yesterday with two hundred and fifty members present and last evening a banquet was held at which Governor Davidson and prominent tobacco men delivered speeches—among them Sanford Sovell of this city. It appears to be the sentiment of the association that a formal protest should be made to President Roosevelt and to the Senators and congressmen of the Wisconsin delegation against the passage of the Philippine tariff measure in relation to tobacco. Among the questions discussed was that of contracting tobacco while it was yet in the field and one of the speakers made the statement that the tobacco growers of Wisconsin, losing a million and a half dollars by losing this year and not being able to take advantage of the rise in prices that came later.

Treasurer Fred W. Coon of Edgerton reported that the receipts for the year were $172.50 and the disbursements $143.85, leaving a balance of $28.65 in the treasury. Convention committees were appointed as follows: Awards—G. H. Ruml, Janesville; John Soulmán, Janesville; William McIntosh, Edgerton; N. Savorsen, Viroqua; and Ole A. Heigerson, Viroqua. Legislation—A. L. Fisher, Janesville; S. E. Heddes, Janesville; and Andrew Jensen, Edgerton. Resolutions—Atley Peterson, Soldiers Grove; O. C. Lee, Stoughton; and Frank Collman, Madison.

Stores Are Making Ready For the Holiday Trade Which Has Begun Early.

Janesville Christmas shoppers have already begun their selection of Christmas gifts. The local stores are filled with dainty reminders for the holiday season and the displays are now almost as large as they usually are a week before Christmas Day itself. Many strangers are to be seen in the city and the general tone of prosperity is felt by all branches of business.

Never Had So Many Pennies. Janesville, Dec. 4, 1906. Puzzle Editor: In trying to solve your Skidoo Problem by getting the L. C. M. of the numbers 2 to 22 inclusive it is evident that there must be some other way, as no coin collector ever had 698,377,681 pennies and, if he had, he would have given them all to his son for boxing them up correctly. So the boy went at it on the cut and try plan. He figured on all the boxes from 2 to 22, but couldn't make it come out even. So he tried this way: He took 22 boxes and put 1 penny in each box and 1 he laid down as a tally. He did that 23 times, each time putting one penny out for a tally. He then got discouraged and told his father he did not think it possible to do it

THE JAPANESE SCHOOL QUESTION

When Mayor Schmitz, of San Francisco, was in New York, the other day, he said that the school disturbance in his own city could be settled very easily by applying the age limit.

The mayor is familiar with existing conditions, and is in position to talk intelligently. He says that there are but few Japanese children in the public schools, but that men who are ambitious to learn to read and write, enter the primary department, and very naturally demoralize the school system.

What he says is true, and there is not a state in the union that would not rebel under similar conditions. If fifty ignorant Americans, ranging in age from 25 to 50, attempted to enter our primary schools, we would say, "No." Yet this is what was attempted in San Francisco.

The school authorities are right in demanding that they be segregated, and educated in an adult school, and the people of California have occasion for a grievance over the attitude of the President on the question.

The message deals at some length on the situation, but it is easy to read between the lines, that the author was writing for the benefit of Japan. His assurance will quiet any national feeling that might arise, and he evidently believed that the situation at home could be handled without friction.

THE BROWNVILLE RIOT

Secretary Taft has just published a full report of the Brownville, Texas, riot, which resulted in a number of deaths, and the discharge from the army of a battalion of colored soldiers.

These facts were brought to the attention of President Roosevelt, and without waiting for consultation with Secretary Taft, who at the time was in Cuba, he took immediate action, and the three companies were retired.

The President has been severely criticised, for the course pursued, and one of the first acts of the senate, when it convened, was to order a full investigation.

In the meantime the report of Secretary Taft has been made, and after a careful review of the situation, he sustains the President, and says that no other course was open to him.

The report says in brief that from nine to twenty soldiers left the barracks at midnight, and proceeded to "shoot up" the town, killing three people, and wounding several more.

The first volley awakened many of the sleeping garrison, and the battalion was called to arms. At the roll call it is claimed that every man answered to his name, while no guns were missing from the gun racks.

The men were equipped with new service rifles, and about 100 empty shells and clips, adapted to the new guns, were found on the streets of Brownville, the next morning.

The officers reluctantly admitted that some of the men must be guilty, but the most rigid examination failed to reveal who they were, and the secretary says that the men were given parities were apprehended, that the entire battalion would be discharged.

After reviewing the case carefully, Secretary Taft says:

"Under these circumstances the question arises: Is the government helpless? Must it continue in its service a battalion many of the members of which show their willingness to condone a crime of a capital character committed by from ten to twenty of its members; and put on a front of silence and ignorance which enables the criminals to escape just punishment?"

"These enlisted men took the oath of allegiance to the government, and were to be used under the law to maintain its supremacy. Can the government properly therefore keep in its employ for the purpose of maintaining law and order any longer a body of men, from 5 to 10 per cent of whom can plan and commit murder, and rely upon the silence of a number of their companions to escape detection?"

"It may be that in the battalion are a number of men wholly innocent, who know neither who the guilty men are, nor any circumstances which will aid in their detection, though this can not be true of many. Because there may be innocent men in the battalion, must the government continue to use it to guard communities of men, women and children when it contains so dangerous an element impossible of detection?"

"Certainly not. When a man enlists in the army he knows that, for the very purpose of protecting itself, the government reserves to itself the absolute right of discharge, not as a punishment, but for the public safety or interest. In such a case as this, the inconvenience and hardship to those innocent of participation or knowledge, arising from arbitrarily terminating the contract of enlistment in accordance with the right which the government by statute reserves, must be borne by them in the public interest.

"It goes without saying that if the guilty could be ascertained they should and would be punished, but the impossibility of determining who are the guilty makes the whole battalion useless to the government as an instrument for maintaining law and order. The only means of ridding the military service of a band of would-be murderers of women and children, and actual murderers of one man, is the discharge of the entire battalion."

When all the facts are considered, congress, as well as the people, will discover that the President was right in the action taken.

Governor Davidson promises a brief message, and proposes to place the responsibility of law-making upon the legislature, where it belongs. It will seem refreshing to have a governor who is satisfied to let nature take its course, and who does not aspire to be the whole thing.

Some of the retired congressmen have lived in Washington so long that the importance of the home constituency was entirely forgotten. The Capital City is a good place for a home, but the citizens are largely lived men, and the public is an erratic employer.

Gillette, the Herkimer county man convicted of the murder of his sweet heart, Miss Brown, belongs to the class of criminals that can well be spared from any community. He expresses no sorrow for his crime, and seems to regard his conviction with indifference.

Albert Young, the man who turned state's evidence in the teamsters' strike trial, says that he expects to go to Joliet. If he does, his old friend, Cornelius Shea, will doubtless keep him company. This class of labor agitators are a curse to organized labor.

Congressman Slayden, of Texas, loves the negro so much that he proposes to retire him from the dangers of military life in the United States army. That might be called a considerate proposition, coming from any state north of Mason and Dixon's line.

The President rules that government employees can only work eight hours a day, whether they will or not. This theory may be all right in public service, but the men who get to the front, in any calling, never spend much time in watching the clock.

It cost Mr. Connor $17,000 to secure the office of lieutenant governor. While Lenroot spent nearly half that amount to defeat Davidson and secure a residence in the executive mansion. The primary election is a good thing, but it comes high.

COLD WAVE HEADED TOWARD JANESVILLE

Weather Bureau Report That a Genuine Winter Blast is on its Way Towards Janesville.

"Snow Thursday (today), fair but colder Friday," is the weather prediction sent out from the weather man's tower of observation. Medicine Hat weather with the thermometer at two below zero at that point and nearly zero at Omaha, the two waves converging promise real winter weather. Madison, forty miles north, reports zero weather yesterday although the lowest record here was twenty-eight above during the night. Winter clothing, snow shovels and extra coal are urged as a precaution against the wintry blasts that are promised to herald in the Christmas shopping. From now on there promises to be no lack of winter if the men who make the weather can be relied upon.

USE OF TRACKS FOR SWITCHING PURPOSE

Superintendent Harvey Clark of Institute For the Blind Raises a Point.

Harvey Clark, superintendent of the state school for the blind, has appeared before the state railroad commission with a petition asking that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road be compelled to switch cars, arriving over the Northwestern system, onto the spur track of the former company, near the concrete bridge when such cars are consigned to the state school for the blind. In speaking of the matter this morning Mr. Clark said: "This question was brought into prominence by the action of the St. Paul road recently when a car of material from Winnebago station arrived in the city over the Northwestern road and the St. Paul company refused to switch it onto the siding adjacent to the school on the grounds that if they did so they would be doing a trading business for a competing road. I offered to pay the switching charges and maintain that as a common carrier they have discriminated against the state school, in view of the fact they switch cars from the Northwestern road onto factory sidings in the city. The car in question was filled with material ordered shipped here by the board of control from a northern institution. The St. Paul has no trucks at Winnebago station, the point of shipment, hence it had to come over the Northwestern line. When it arrived here I desired to shorten the haul for our teams and have the car placed convenient to the grounds and upon their refusal I made the complaint to the state railway commission to compel them to do so on the grounds that a discrimination had been shown in this case."

MORE CLERKS FOR THE POSTOFFICE

If Eight-Hour Law is Passed by Congress Local Force Will Have to Be Enlarged.

During the short session of the fifty-ninth congress the proposed law limiting the workday of all government employees to eight hours may be passed and as a result a larger force of clerks will be needed in the Janesville postoffice. At present each employee works from nine to ten or more hours a day and the lessening of each one's duties would make necessary an addition in clerks.

Janesville Postage Stamps

It has been announced from Washington that the 6,000 presidential post-offices in the nation, in which class Janesville belongs, will sell stamps with the names of their towns engraved upon them. Mexico and Liberia have used this plan and found that stamp robberies are more easily traced and that postmasters are better enabled to show the amount of business their offices are doing. Postmaster Valentine has received no notice to this effect, but he says the Janesville stamps will be issued when the stock already printed has been exhausted.

The up to date dentist is a tooth saver rather than a tooth puller. People are getting educated up to a knowledge that it is far more to their advantage to preserve their teeth.

Hence many a man is now fitted up with elegant bridge work fastened to his remaining teeth.

Who a few years ago surely would have been condemned to finish his days struggling with a false set of clumsy store teeth in his mouth.

Dr. Richards makes a specialty of beautiful gold and porcelain bridge work.

Work just like your own natural teeth.

Look better than your own ever did. Feel fine.

Grind like a set of mill stones.

Last a life time.

His prices are simply $5 a tooth. No doubt you have paid $10 heretofore and not a bit better work in any respect.

Try Dr. Richards for your next dentistry.

DANIEL M'KELLIPS DIED THIS MORNING

Oldest Resident in Rock County Passed Away, Aged Ninety-nine Years.

Daniel McKellips, the oldest resident of Rock County, passed away at his son's home in Johnston this morning. He was one of the early pioneers of hardy constitution and after a life of activity and thrift he occupied a place of honor and esteem in the community in which he grew up and where his best efforts were put forth. His home was on the quarter section of land which he entered a claim for when this county was being given to settlers about sixty-seven years ago.

A Green Mountain Boy Daniel McKellips was born in New Hampshire, March 17, 1807, and there the first years of his life were spent. In 1837 he journeyed toward the west and came to Rock county. He had left his father and brother in Indiana but entered two claims, one of five hundred acres for his father and the other of one hundred and sixty acres for himself. On his return to Indiana he joined his parents and brought them to their new home in Wisconsin. Of the five children, Daniel, the oldest, is the only one still living.

Married in the East. About six years before his migration to Rock county Mr. McKellips had been united in the bonds of marriage with Miss Elmira Woodward and to them were born five children. In 1878 Mrs. McKellips was summoned by death and left to mourn her death a husband and two children. Since that time Mr. McKellips had lived with his son who manages the farm.

Much Respected Citizen Mr. McKellips was for a number of years retired from active life, but he kept a keen interest in the affairs of the community where he lived, the state and the nation. He had always been a voter of the democratic ticket and was one of the staunchest members of the party in Rock county.

Mrs. Myra A. Mead Myra A. Mead, wife of Isaac N. Mead of 176 Terrace street, died at her home this morning at 10:45 o'clock. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

William O'Neill The remains of the late William O'Neill of Chicago were brought here on the 11:45 train over the North Western road this morning and taken to St. Patrick's church, where Rev. J. J. McGinnity conducted funeral services. Interment was made in Mount Olivet, the following acting as pallbearers: John McCue, Joseph Connors, Hugh M. Joyce, John Keenan, Edward Connell, and John Doran.

Ralph Bleasdale Ralph Bleasdale, a well-known and highly respected resident of the town of Janesville, succumbed to Bright's disease shortly before three o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Deceased was forty-two years of age and is survived by a wife, a mother, two brothers, and three sisters.

VINCENNES UNIVERSITY CELEBRATES CENTENNIAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 6.—The town of Vincennes was on fête today in celebration of the centennial of its most cherished institution, Vincennes University. It was just one hundred years ago today that the historic university was opened for the admission of students. William Henry Harrison serving as its first president. The centennial was commemorated with an all-day program of historical and literary exercises in which the trustees, faculty, student body, alumni and a number of invited guests took part.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—The annual meeting of the Pacific Coast baseball league, for which the managers and managers gathered in Los Angeles today, promises to be one of the most important in the history of the organization. After formally awarding the championship pennant to Portland for the season of 1906 the meeting will take up the discussion of a number of important questions relating to the future of the league. The length of the league season will be discussed, but probably the most important business will be the making up of the circuit. The dropping of Fresno will mean that another city must be chosen to fill the vacant berth. The claims of Salt Lake City and one or two other applicants will be given due consideration.

CLIFTON FLOOD RECEDES

NUMBER OF DEATHS IN MINING TOWN IS NOT KNOWN.

Three Ghouls Caught Looting Are Shot Down—Smelting Works and Railway Lose Heavily.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 6.—A special from Clifton, Ariz., the first authentic news out of that city since the flood prostrated all wires, is as follows:

The river is receding rapidly and the weather has cleared, hence no further damage is apprehended.

Two bodies were recovered from the wreckage along Chase creek, but the number of deaths cannot be told. Joe Thron, who was rescued from the flood and whose wife was lost, was taken to the hospital in a serious condition, but will probably recover. Three men who were caught in the act of looting and who refused to surrender to officers, were shot and fatally wounded.

The flood in Chase creek was caused by the breaking of the dam of the Detroit Copper company, impounding a vast amount of tailings, which ran down the creek with a seven foot breast.

Only one business house on Chase creek escaped damage, and many were entirely destroyed. The loss is appalling. North Clifton was badly wrecked. Nearly all of the residences in that section were destroyed or damaged.

Solomonville, Ariz., Dec. 6.—As the result of 30 hours' steady rain over southern Arizona, the mining town of Clifton, with 3,000 population, was swept by a terrific flood and hundreds of people have fled to the mountains for safety. Owing to disabled wires, details are hard to obtain, but the known dead reaches 18 and will be doubtless much larger. A large majority of the population are Mexicans and Italians, who live in squalid huts now inundated.

The town is built in three sections, Chase Creek and North and South Clifton. The catastrophe commenced with the breaking of a big reservoir in the mountains above, precipitating a vast flood upon the Chase Creek section. The principal street is near the beautiful stream and was completely destroyed. It was there that the fatalities occurred, as the flood engulfed the people without warning. The dead were mostly foreigners whose names cannot be learned. Two Americans are known to have perished, one being caught on a pile of wreckage and drowned. North and South Clifton were swept by the current of the San Francisco river. A new school building and scores of houses were washed away. The railway bridge is tottering. All information is sent out from a telephone office surrounded by water. The great smelting works of the Arizona Copper works was located at Clifton and the company's loss will be heavy. The Arizona & New Mexico Railway company will also be a heavy loser as its yards and shops are inundated.

Under rather unfavorable conditions of weather and sea the first-class battle ship Vermont had her screw standardization tests over a measured mile of the Rockland, Me., course. Her fastest speed with tidal corrections was at the rate of 18.62 knots an hour.

EX-CAPTAIN OF REGULAR ARMY TAKES HIS BRIDE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Dec. 6.—At the home of the bride's parents at Glen Ridge, N. J., Miss Alice Pulsifer, daughter of Fred K. Pulsifer, a wealthy and well-known New Yorker, was married today to Thomas Boyd Crockett. Mr. Crockett belongs to an old Virginia family and was formerly a lieutenant in the regular army. Some time ago he gave up his military career to enter business in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Crockett will spend their honeymoon on a large ranch which the bride owns near the Yellowstone park.
